Marcia and son start Sri Lankan charity stint

A MOTHER-AND-SON team has jetted off to Sri Lanka to volunteer for a charity which supports disadvantaged women and children who are victims of violence or have disabilities.

Marcia Summers, who is director of Technical Industries and Skills for Life at the College of Haringey Enfield and North East London, has flown out with 14-year-old son Joe and is spending 16 days at the Women's Development Centre, in the Sri Lankan central province of Kandy.

The charity runs a shelter and provides counselling for victims of sexual and emotional abuse.

Marcia, who works at the college's campus in High Road, Tottenham, is volunteering with Joe at the vocational training centre for young people with disabilities.

They will also visit villages in the tree plantations which provide refuges for abused young girls.

It is their fifth trip in Sri Lanka. They first visited during the Easter holidays in 2013 and have returned each year since.

Happy to help: Marcia Summers and son Joe (middle) on their 2013 trip to Sri Lanka

Marcia first heard about the charity through a friend of her cousin's who is a trustee for UK charity Shining Life Children's Trust, which supports underprivileged children in Sri Lanka.

The 50-year-old has funded each of the trips herself and has set up a crowdfunding page online in a bid to raise £500 in donations for the charity.

It can be found at www.justgiving.com/crowdfunding/marcia-summers-1

Digging for victory

VOLUNTEERS have been digging deep to turn Haringey greener.

They turned out to plant trees after Haringey Council won a £21,800 grant from the Greater London Authority.

In total, about 210 new trees have now been planted in the borough.

Thanks to the latest money, Downhills Park, in Tottenham, Bruce Castle Park, in Tottenham, and Markfield Park, in South Tottenham, shared 45 trees between them, to increase shade and cope with frequent heavy rain.

The council provided gloves and tools for volunteers who undertook the planting, although some youngsters brought their own equipment, including tiny beach spades.

Fifty more trees are being planted on streets in areas identified by the council and community group Tottenham Trees as having few trees.

Councillor Peray Ahmet, cabinet member for environment, was at Downhills Park and said: "We had a brilliant day planting new trees, with lots of people volunteering their time and getting stuck in."

"As well as being a great event for the community, the trees are another sign that we are committed to making Haringey greener. We have fantastic parks across the borough and these new trees are the perfect addition, right in time for spring."

A separate community scheme, run by charity Groundwork London, is planting 150 small trees at Lordship Recreation Ground, in Tottenham.

OWNER DIES AFTER ATTACK BY HIS DOG

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE are probing the death of a Wood Green man who died after being bitten by his dog.

Mario Perivoitos, 41, died two hours after his Staffordshire bull terrier attacked him.

Reports say he was in the presence of a BBC film crew at the time of the attack at 10.30pm on March 20.

Members of the crew called for emergency help after the dog launched its attack.

Police called to the scene tried desperately to save Mr Perivoitos at his home in Normans Close, Norman Avenue, but he died in hospital shortly afterwards.

A spokesman for Scotland Yard said: "Officers attended the scene along with the London Ambulance Service."

"The 41-year-old man – the owner of the dog – was taken to a north London hospital where he was pronounced dead at around 12.30am on Tuesday, March 21."

"The dog was contained by officers and seized. It remains in secure kennels. The dog is a Staffordshire bull terrier, a breed not prohibited under the Dangerous Dogs Act."

Police said that Mr Perivoitos's death was not being treated as suspicious.

A post-mortem examination at Haringey mortuary on Friday, March 24, gave the cause of death as hypovolemic shock – a condition which is caused by huge blood loss – and damage to the airway consistent with a dog bite.

Police said: "Inquiries by police at Haringey continue to assist the coroner."

The BBC press office said: "A crew making a BBC documentary were present – but not filming – at the time of the incident and called an ambulance."

"Given the ongoing inquiries, it would not be appropriate to comment further."

By-election looms after Labour councillor quits

A LABOUR councillor has resigned after six years' service.

Ozzie Uzoanya is quitting as one of the three ward councillors for Enfield Lock.

Mr Uzoanya said: "It is with deep regret that due to family reasons I am resigning from my position as a councillor for Enfield Lock.

"In the six years I have served on the council I have taken great pride in seeing a Labour administration work tremendously hard for all residents across the borough.

"I would like to thank council staff and partners for its ongoing efforts to improve Enfield as a whole.

"I would also like to thank the people of Enfield Lock who put their faith in electing me twice to serve – it's been a privilege and honour to serve you."

There are 63 members of Enfield Council – 41 Labour and 22 Conservative.

The date of a by-election in Enfield Lock is not yet known.

Report highlights increasing seriousness of youth violence

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

SERIOUS youth violence in Enfield is up more than five per cent, latest figures show, as officials battle to combat gangs.

Ten gangs are operating across a borough of about 330,000 people.

And in a bid to cut serious youth violence, officers at the community safety unit have issued 49 criminal behaviour orders and 40 anti-social behaviour orders – mainly against gang members – as well as one gang injunction.

"These orders are predominately attached to gang nominals and associates to prevent and disrupt this type of serious violence," said a report presented to Enfield Council's crime scrutiny committee.

Figures provided by Andrea Clemons, the council's head of community safety, show that there were between 300 and 429 instances of serious youth violence in Enfield in the past 12 months.

And in the 12 months up to March 6 this year, there was a 5.3 per cent increase in serious youth violence, compared to the previous year.

The report added: "In Enfield, the majority of gangs operate in areas east of the borough. Although the main areas of gang activity are the N9, N18 and EN3 postcodes, members operate throughout the borough and the negative impact of their criminal activities is targeted by the police and the council's community safety unit.

Of the ten gangs, the report says, Dem Africans and the Get Money Gang (GMG) are the "most problematic in terms of the persistent criminal activities".

Dem Africans operate in the N9/N18

Criminal activity: Some of the gangs are trying to supply drugs, says the report postcode area while the GMG operate in the EN3 area.

The report says: "Both are trying to supply drugs in their area, but also venture across the borough and outside. Venturing outside their areas can result in violent assaults on each other."

Officers say they are awaiting final approval for work with young people via the youth offending unit and other projects.

The report says the work is being done on a number of fronts to combat gangs by ensuring children avoid gangs, providing services to reduce serious youth violence and ensuring swift justice to deter the most harmful gang members.

Oasis Youth Support, at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Edmonton, supports victims of youth violence in a project which began in 2014 to help young people who kept reappearing in A&E due to anger management problems, assaults, fights and stabbings.

The project is now linked to the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, helping more than 500 young people.

One gang's members regularly attend the Oasis Hub youth outreach centre. The report says work at drop-in sessions there and at Oasis Academy, in Enfield Lock, is building relationships with young people and providing them with positive choices.

On their bikes: Youngsters take part in the Bikeability sessions

Kids like bikes

JUNIOR bike enthusiasts had a wheely good time when they swapped the classroom for the playground and got bicycle savvy.

Pupils from West Grove Primary, in Chase Road, Southgate, aged eight and nine, learned how to ride their bikes safely and how to check their bikes were roadworthy as well as mastering signalling.

Year 6 teacher Yzelle Casey said: "When children were asked to describe their experience of Bikeability in one word, the responses were, 'fun, brilliant, wonderful and amazing'.

"It's great because they learn how to cycle safely and have fun at the same time."

The children from Years 2 to 6 at West Grove do Bikeability cycle training and get awarded either a Level 1 or 2 badge and a certificate at the end of their training.

The instructors Sadie Blackman and Alexandra Elmquist are from the Enfield Cycle Confident scheme.

Katie works animal magic to help hospital patients

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A PET pooch is helping to speed up the recovery of hospital patients with animal assisted therapy sessions.

Katie, a nine-year-old Border Collie, has played a key role in motivating adults from the inpatient physical rehabilitation service at Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health NHS Trust.

Katie belongs to Marianne Welsh, a senior occupational therapist in the Magnolia Unit at the trust's St Michael's Primary Care Centre, in Gater Drive, Enfield.

Alongside her main job, Marianne volunteers for the scheme run by Pets As Therapy, a charity aimed at providing therapy from touching and stroking a friendly animal.

It also provides sessions at day care centres, schools, hospices and prisons.

Originally a stray from Ireland, Katie's visits are the highlight for many patients and have already proved effective in their recovery.

Marianne said that one patient who needed help to transfer to a wheelchair was so "focused" on Katie's presence during one session that he stood up himself without realising.

"The excitement of having Katie around makes them do their exercises without thinking," explained Marianne. "It becomes less of a chore because they just want to play with her. She gives them motivation."

Patients at the Magnolia Unit may require rehabilitation after having a fall, sustaining an injury, or suffering from an infection or a neurological disease.

What Katie did: Katie the Border Collie with mental health trust staff Kavita Shastri, Sarah Hodges and Marianne Welsh, the dog's owner

Marianne added that the trust hoped the therapy sessions would gradually reduce the number of referrals to social services.

Marianne knew Katie would be ideal for the therapy sessions as dogs need to pass a temperament and behaviour assessment, train to follow commands and respond to changes in their environment.

Sarah Hodges, an occupational therapist, who works alongside Marianne, said research from studies has shown that dogs can lower patients' blood pressure and help to calm them.

"Just petting a dog for a few minutes can help people feel more relaxed," she said.

"We can see the change in patients' moods when they are in the group and they will often talk about it afterwards to friends, families and other patients."

Den donation reflects Rotary Club's kindness

Den of delights: Youngsters make use of the new equipment

A CLUB where autistic children meet is reflecting on the kindness of others after being given some new sensory equipment.

The Mirror Den, designed to aid play and exploration, was an "instant hit" with the children, who go every fortnight.

Zebra Children's Club said that things were "really on the up" and thanked Enfield Chase Rotary group, who funded the £500 den.

Jamie Ashton, of Merton Road, Enfield, said: "The new equipment is fantastic. It was delivered on Saturday and the children were straight in there.

"It can be built in three different ways and is all about exploring – feel, touch and senses."

Hailed as a "lifeline" by parents, the Zebra Children's Club was founded two years ago by Jamie and his partner Harriet Piercy, who were struggling to find somewhere for their autistic son, Joshua Ashton, ten to socialise.

The club, based at Boleyn Community Hall, in St Martin's Close, Enfield, also has a ball pond, music and arts and crafts facilities and, above all, is a safe social setting where "children can attend without judgement and prejudice".

Last year dwindling donations and a failed sponsorship deal left the club behind with rent and facing closure – but fortunes have turned.

In January, it was granted charity status and is hoping that will open all kinds of doors for future projects and funding streams.

Enfield Chase Rotary raised £250 and with a matching grant from its own charity, The Rotary Foundation, was able to buy the equipment.

Club president Sue Jessel said: "It was wonderful to see how quickly the children were enjoying the den and how valuable the sessions are to children and parents alike."

Young dancers' scientific approach

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

CREATIVE juices were flowing at an annual dance festival which involved more than 50 Enfield schools taking part in creating science-inspired performances.

More than 1,000 youngsters from 48 primary, six secondary and six schools for children with special needs explored this year's theme – A Scientific Approach – throughout the week at Millfield Theatre, in Silver Street, Edmonton.

Topics ranged from evolution, to natural forces and changes in state, which were represented through dance.

Youngsters from West Lea School, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, explored the invention of the antibiotic penicillin and danced to music which started with a speech by Alexander Fleming who made the discovery.

A plant's life cycle was represented through dance by children from St Michael's Church of England Primary School, in Brigadier Hill, Enfield.

"It was one of our most challenging events," said Jan Hickman, manager of the physical education team at Enfield Council, who helped to organise the event.

"The brilliant thing about it was that children could enjoy dance while improving their learning of science."

Youngsters from Addison House Behaviour Support Service, in Addison Avenue, Southgate, depicted the stages of a butterfly's life cycle and started their dance dressed as a cocoon.

"The festival brings all the schools together. It gives the children the chance to share dance and be creative – it was brilliant and it's important for them to showcase their work on a professional stage," added Ms Hickman.

Businesses urged to put their loos at public's convenience

By Priya Kingsley-Adam
priya.kingsley-adam
@nlhnews.co.uk

BUSINESSES are being urged to join a scheme which allows the public to use their toilet facilities in return for an annual cash sum from Enfield Council.

The Community Toilet Scheme – launched in 2008 – needs to increase the number of businesses signed up following last month's proposals to reduce the number of public toilets in the borough's parks.

Businesses are paid an annual fee of between £500 and £800, depending on the facilities they can offer, such as disabled toilets, and allows any member of the public, regardless of whether they are a customer, to use them.

The initiative could prove more valuable now as the council plans to save thousands of pounds by closing public toilets in a number of parks across the borough.

Window sticker logos will indicate which businesses are participating in the scheme and whether they offer additional baby changing facilities and disabled toilets.

A list of the current 28 members are available on the council's website and include the Baker Street Cafe, in Baker Street, Enfield, Tesco Extra, in High Street, Ponders End, and The Luncharian, in Vera Avenue, Winchmore Hill.

The initiative was introduced following concerns from Monty Meth, president of Enfield Over 50s Forum.

He said: "The scheme has proven to be of great help to people who get 'caught short', especially mums with young children.

"It also helps the participating businesses, who not only earn a tidy fee for providing this service, but also tell me it has attracted more customers.

"This is what matters in these tough times. I'd like to see more businesses getting involved, particularly restaurants and cafes, who already have the facilities.

"It would be good for them and good for their potential customers," added Mr Meth.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, said it was a "positive" scheme that provided mutual benefits for businesses and the public.

Flush point: One of the window stickers "Participation in the Community Toilet Scheme creates a positive image of your business, plus you can earn an annual payment to help towards costs," he said.

"We would welcome new members."

More businesses are needed to help expand the scheme, especially in Bowes Road, Arncliffe Grove and Edmondson.

A free toilet finder app can be used to identify locations in the borough – www.ToiletFinder.org/locations

To access a map, visit <https://new.enfield.gov.uk/in-my-area/?postcode=&layer=12> – and for a list of the businesses participating in the scheme, visit the council's website – <https://new.enfield.gov.uk/services/leisure-and-culture/leisure/community-toilet-scheme/>

Smashed: The windscreen of the W8 bus involved in the collision

Bus damaged in accident

BUS passengers had to be checked over by paramedics following an accident involving the double decker they were travelling in and a van carrying scaffolding.

The bus's windscreen was smashed in the collision, which happened just before 1pm on Wednesday last week at the junction of Baker Street and Parsonage Lane as the W8 was heading in the direction of Chase Farm Hospital.

Police and London Ambulance Service attended the scene.

A police spokeswoman said: "Police were called due to severe damage to the bus and also possible passengers injured.

"LAS were present and passengers were checked over, but there were no serious injuries and no one was conveyed to hospital.

"No offences alleged or apparent," she added.

What a load of rubbish

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A SUSPECTED criminal gang has broken through padlocked security gates and dumped 77 tonnes of building waste in Albany Park.

That's the equivalent of six double decker buses – fly-tipped in the park, in Bell Lane, Enfield Highway.

Enfield Council has already spent £25,000 of taxpayers' money shifting most of it since it was reported two weeks' ago and was hoping to clear the rest last week.

Witnesses or anyone with information is urged to get in touch with the police or the council, so those responsible can be prosecuted.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, said: "We can confirm that a suspected criminal gang broke securing padlocks on Albany Park's gates and dumped an estimated 77 tonnes of building waste in the park.

"We have so far removed 62 tonnes of waste and clear-up efforts are continuing, but have been hampered by waterlogged conditions on site, which is preventing us from getting vehicles to the affected area.

"We estimate that the clear-up has so far cost the council –

'Disgraceful': Councillor Joanne Laban in front of the building waste dumped in Albany Park and therefore council tax payers – about £25,000, which is money diverted from services that directly benefit our residents.

"Though we do not want to turn our parks into fortresses and I would emphasise that the vehicle gates were secure at the time this offence happened.

"We are exploring ways of increasing security at the park to prevent a repeat of this occurrence, such as the installation of secure road blocks, which are designed to prevent unauthorised vehicles from accessing the park.

"We are currently investigating this incident and would ask residents who have any information regarding those responsible to pass this on either to Enfield Council or the police. As and when we catch those responsible for this appalling crime, we will prosecute them.

"Residents consistently tell us that they value clean streets above all else and it is completely unacceptable for criminals to disgrace our borough in this way."

Joanne Laban, deputy leader of the council's Tory group, alerted the local authority after several Enfield residents contacted her a fortnight ago.

They spotted the sprawling piles of building waste from a footpath near Brimsdown Avenue. The area where the rubbish had been dumped is close to the railway line.

Ms Laban said: "The fact that someone has used Albany Park to dump those huge piles of rubbish is disgraceful.

"Our parks should be cherished, not desecrated with fly-tipping.

"The council needs to clear it up quickly and work with the police to find out who has done this."

MORE than 90 per cent of English councils have increased their council tax this year. Austerity is biting so hard that they have no option. Indeed for those who provide adult social care like Enfield government has provided funding on the understanding that a three per cent addition to council tax would be made for social care.

Enfield made no increases to council tax for six years despite government cuts, increasing population demands and inflationary pressures, but this freeze cannot continue.

We have therefore increased council tax this year to ensure we can continue to provide core services. Indeed the cuts in funding from government will continue over the next few years and tough decisions will have to be made.

By 2020, government will have cut funding to Enfield in real terms by a staggering 60 per cent.

Despite this the council still provides great services as a safety net for residents at risk, has first-class libraries and some of the best parks in London, retains a weekly refuse collection and invests in the future with new affordable housing and job creation.

At the same time as cuts to councils our NHS is under tremendous strain. I worry that it will be degraded to the point it no longer is held in such high regard.

Changes in targets for operations removed, longer waiting times in emergency departments and procedures no longer available – a real worry. We must defend the NHS and all our public services. They are the jewel in the crown.

Why it's important to talk to children about grief

TALKING to children about grief and loss is difficult for anyone and a BBC documentary touched the hearts of millions in its portrayal of one celebrity's personal challenges.

Being Mum and Dad was an emotional insight into Rio Ferdinand's grief following the death of his wife Rebecca and – as well as highlighting the emotional difficulties faced by anyone following the loss of a partner – it also raised awareness of the challenges of talking to children about the loss of a parent.

To help parents broach the subject with their children the NSPCC has put together the following advice:

- Consider where and when you're going to start the conversation and make it relevant. It could be while watching a TV programme featuring the subject you want to talk about. Special story books about loss are also available.

- Encourage them to ask questions and be honest about how you feel, too.

- Keep the conversation going by asking them questions. If it does not go as well as you were hoping, give it time. They may re-start the conversation with you a few days later.

- Show that you are listening to them and that you value what they are telling you.

- Reassure them by letting them know it is normal to feel upset, scared or worried.

Parents can get help and advice by calling the NSPCC helpline on 0800 800 5000. Children and young people can contact Childline on 0800 1111.

Having difficult conversations is hard, but it can bring you and your child or children closer together and help you to understand each other a bit more.

Is your child's school adequately prepared?

THOUSANDS of children with long-term medical conditions such as type 1 diabetes, asthma and epilepsy are being put at risk in schools, says the Health Conditions in Schools Alliance – a coalition of more than 30 leading charities and health organisations including Diabetes UK, Asthma UK and Crohn's & Colitis UK.

Nine in ten schools in England asked could not present an adequate medical conditions policy, the Alliance reveals, based on new data disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act alongside investigations by Diabetes UK.

A medical conditions policy aids teachers and other school staff in caring for any child with long-term health conditions and has been mandatory since September 2014.

Of the few schools that did provide a policy, two thirds were inadequate and missed key details such as staff training, how to safely include the child in all activities and, crucially, what to do in an emergency.

The Health Conditions in Schools Alliance says the Department for Education needs to do more to make schools aware of their legal responsibility to put medical conditions policies in place.

It is also calling on Ofsted to start checking if schools are complying with the legislation that makes medical conditions policies compulsory.

Ask your school for its medical conditions policy and check that it makes reference to the statutory guidance.

If your school does not have a medical conditions policy, the Health Conditions in School Alliance has lots of advice and tools at www.medicalconditionsatschool.org.uk

For information on supporting children with diabetes in school, go to www.diabetes.org.uk/schools

Give us your spare clothes

A NEW survey for Barnardo's has revealed Londoners could be hoarding more than 85 million items of clothing that they no longer wear.

According to analysis by a statistician at the University of East London, that's enough to stretch comfortably around the world when placed end to end.

The poll of more than 500 men and women in the capital by YouGov also found that one in 17 people have at least 40 pieces tucked away in wardrobes and drawers that they no longer wear.

Almost one quarter of Londoners (24 per cent) said those clothes were worth £200 or more and one third (34 per cent) have bought items they've never worn.

Barnardo's has 35 stores across the capital which are a crucial source of the funding we need to run services for the most vulnerable children, young people and families.

By having a spring clean and donating to your local Barnardo's store, you can help transform the lives of others alongside your own wardrobe.

It's time to take a stand against selfish motorists

I THINK it is time someone brings to the attention of Enfield Council the behaviour of some recalcitrant motorists, who park their vehicles without regard to other road users.

Going out to buy a paper, I was confronted by a badly-parked four-wheel-drive car which blocked the pavement to the extent that there was no choice but to go on to the road to manoeuvre one's way back on to the pavement to continue one's journey.

Imagine a mother with a baby in a pram? The road leading to where the said car was parked is Morecambe Terrace, by Great Cambridge Road.

This being the case, drivers go at terrific speeds because it's a one-way street. Do we have to wait until there is a serious accident before action is taken?

There is a photographic evidence of the vehicle.

I call on the council to take immediate action to ensure that drivers obey the regulations.

Here is how it saves us money

PETER Cook wants to know how a fortnightly green bin collection can save money ("How does this save money", Advertiser, March 22), so let me oblige.

The savings are achieved by the council reducing the number of collection vehicles and crews we use to deliver the service each week since we are only visiting 50 per cent of the properties.

The fortnightly rounds will require a lower number of agency staff to operate, so there will be savings here.

However, there has been no change to the number of permanently employed personnel and no redundancy costs have been incurred.

Hence, the council really does save money from moving to fortnightly green waste collections.

Four bailed following attack outside school

By Adrian Colley
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FOUR teenagers have been released on police bail after an attack on pupils outside Chace Community School, in Enfield.

The incident, which happened a fortnight ago, is the second instance of violence near the school in the last year.

At 3.15pm on March 22, a group of youths with no connection to the secondary school, in Churchbury Lane, arrived in cars or minicabs, according to a letter sent to parents by the school's headteacher, before attacking a number of pupils.

It followed an incident last May when police investigated the stabbing of a 14-year-old boy.

Chace headteacher Daniel Bruton declined to comment. One parent told the Advertiser that the boys who had been attacked were year 11 pupils and that there was a regular police patrol presence outside the school when the school day finishes at about 3pm.

A police spokesman said: "Bottles and poles were used to assault pupils. One victim was bottled around the head. Others were also injured, but none were conveyed to hospital following the incident."

"Four male suspects were identified as being involved and arrested at the scene – one aged 16 and three aged 17. All have been interviewed and bailed to return to the police station in May pending further inquiries."

NatWest confirms closure of branch

NATWEST has announced that its Enfield Highway branch is due to close on October 12.

The bank has blamed the closure on a 44 per cent reduction in the number of transactions in the branch since 2011. It said that customers were choosing to bank in different ways, with more than 62 per cent of customers taking advantage of digital options.

NatWest said that the closure was taking place six months later than originally planned to ensure that current customers "have time to consider the right banking options for them".

The nearest NatWest branch is two miles away in Waltham Cross and there are 45 free-to-use ATMs within one mile of the Enfield Highway branch. Customers are also able to pay in and withdraw money at the Post Office, as well as check balances and, for business customers, get coinage.

If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

High-tech support makes a big difference to Ali, 14

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A CHARITY has stepped in to improve the life of a disabled teenager.

With his high-tech specialist equipment, 14-year-old Ali Daysal, from Edmonton, can now interact with his family in safety and comfort.

Ali has a neurological disorder, which has resulted in him having learning difficulties.

That, combined with scoliosis, a spine condition, means he requires support from an adult with all his daily care needs.

Ali, who is a pupil at Waverley School, in The Ride, Ponders End, has dystonic motor disorder – muscle contractions causing abnormal and repetitive movements which affect his scoliosis.

Before receiving the new high-tech equipment – an Acheeva Learning Station – Ali would lay on the sofa for most of the day, or be in his bedroom.

It was provided at a cost of £3,000 by Newlife, a UK charity which provides specialist equipment for children with disabilities and terminal illness.

The Acheeva gives him the postural support he needs and is a cross between a wheelchair, a bed and a therapy table.

Mum Serbian Daysal said: "He has fluid around his heart and needs to be moved often, but this meant that sometimes he would be facing the back of the sofa unable to see his surroundings."

"We would use a lot of bedding to keep him on the furniture, otherwise he was at risk of falling off."

"Our local statutory services were unable to fund the equipment that Ali desperately needed, so I turned to Newlife the charity for disabled children for help," she added.

"It's been so much better for Ali. The equipment has multitude of functions, so he can be moved into different positions, from laying down to standing."

"He is able to interact with the family more because he can be on the same level as us."

Comfortable: Ali Daysal relaxes on his new Acheeva Learning Station

"He has a special pillow, so it's easier to angle him if he falls asleep. Every day he can be comfortable now. Ali seems very happy in it."

"With Ali now under palliative care the equipment couldn't have come at a better time. It has made a big difference."

UK's regional publishers call on national advertisers to place their trust in local news brands.

Dear Advertiser,

As Google, YouTube and Facebook continue to grapple with the concerns around ads appearing next to extremist content and fake news, we wanted to take this opportunity to draw your attention to the trusted, safe and highly responsive online advertising environment provided by the UK's local news brands and represented by the 1XL partnership.

As a premium publisher co-operative, 1XL represents over 800 local news brands in the UK with a reach of over 22.7 million people, making us one of the country's largest digital advertising propositions. This ranges from the Shetland Times in the north of Scotland to the Falmouth Packet in Cornwall, and includes large regional brands such as The Yorkshire Post and The Aberdeen Press & Journal. In many of the towns and cities that we publish in, we now reach over 70% of the adult population each month.

Our content is produced by thousands of trained and highly skilled local journalists who spend their days engaging with communities up and down the country through their coverage of the stories and events affecting their readers lives. Our content is regulated by the Independent Press Standards Organisation (IPSO), the independent regulator that holds us to account for our actions and upholds our high standards of journalism. The context in which this puts your advertising increases engagement, trust and therefore consumer response, giving you better value for money alongside the peace of mind of a safe advertising placement.

Maintaining the integrity of our content and our advertising environment is fundamental to us, and local news brands have always scored extremely well for trust. This was validated by a recent Comscore survey of UK Internet users - people said they trusted content on local news sites almost three times more than they did on social media.

Today we publish our online advertising charter (available at 1xl.co.uk/adcharter). The purpose of this is to ensure our advertisers are given the chance to see the standards and processes we work to in order to guarantee that they get the transparency, trust and value that we believe they deserve.

We stand in agreement that local news brands online are now more than ever a great place for you to communicate and market your business and brands to UK consumers.

What's more your advertising helps us to continue to fund much needed, high quality local journalism. We hope you will stand together with us to support our local news brands, many of which have been publishing for over 150 years, so their unique content can continue to be loved and trusted for many generations to come.

What's on and what's coming

To celebrate the eagerly anticipated line-up of films showing in IMAX® in 2017, including Star Wars: The Last Jedi, Transformers: The Last Knight and Wonder Woman, Cineworld has created an IMAX-inspired puzzle for Enfield, hiding characters from various IMAX films inside a cinema auditorium. You can also find hidden landmarks from your city. Can you spot the 10 IMAX blockbusters and the local landmark in this puzzle? Tweet your favourite film from the selection, tagging @Cineworld & #IMAXFilmFest, and you may be surprised with free film merchandise from Cineworld

A blockbuster bonanza

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

MOVIE lovers will be on the edge of their seats when the IMAX one-day film festival returns for another year this weekend.

Cineworld Enfield is bringing back a line-up of blockbuster hits guaranteed to draw in film-goers at the venue in Southbury Road on Saturday.

The IMAX experience promises more than just a film – when the lights go down, pitch-perfect sound and high definition images transform the audience into another world – and that could be in any one of the four blockbusters featured in the line-up.

The four are Star Wars: The Force Awakens, Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them, The Jungle Book and The Martian.

"We're thrilled that the IMAX® Film Festival is back for the second year running," said Chris J Woodhead, Cineworld Enfield's general manager.

More than 20,000 movie fanatics immersed themselves in the blockbusters at last year's festival at Cineworld venues across the country.

"We were extremely pleased with the positive fan reaction we saw last year," said IMAX managing director for Europe and Africa Giovanni Dolci. "We look forward to partnering with Cineworld once again on the IMAX® Film Festival to present an exciting new line-up of beloved films in the immersive IMAX® format."

Tickets cost £3 per film. For more information on film times or to book seats, visit www.Cineworld.com/IMAX-Film-Fest

Friends on a mission: Michael Caine as Joe, Morgan Freeman as Willie and Alan Arkin as Al set out to rob a bank in Going in Style

Growing old disgracefully

GOING IN STYLE (12A, 96 mins)

THREE elderly men hatch a hare-brained scheme to rob a bank in director Zach Braff's remake of the 1979 comedy of the same title, based on a script by Theodore Melfi (Hidden Figures).

Willie (Morgan Freeman), Joe (Michael Caine) and Albert (Alan Arkin) are lifelong friends, who all worked for the same steel company and are now mellowing in retirement.

While Joe is talking to his unsympathetic bank manager about his overdrawn account, three masked men with guns walk into his local bank and steal $1.6million in broad daylight. Soon after, the trio's former employer announces it is freezing all pension payments.

Enraged by this injustice, Willie, Joe and Albert decide to rob the Williamsburg Savings Bank, which manages the pension fund.

They agree to steal just the money they have earned and donate any additional funds from the heist to charity.

A dry run at a local supermarket ends in disaster and Joe realises that they will need help from an experienced thief, Jesus (John Ortiz), to pull off their ludicrous scheme.

Making the most of your greatest asset

If you are considering downsizing from your current property and you are looking to maximise the value of your asset, it may well pay to explore the options open to you. If you have a large garden or outbuildings then there is a possibility (subject to planning) that you may be able to sell that portion of land and or outbuildings to a developer alongside the sale of your property and therefore realise the maximum value for your asset.

There are four common methods of selling your development land to a developer Unconditional; Subject to Planning; Consented and under a joint venture agreement. There are pro's and con's for all four and materially it all comes down to the desire for the financial remuneration coupled with the speed of the transaction which when put against the methods of sale should highlight the best choice to proceed with.

It is not un-common to have a hybrid deal of two or three different methods should the circumstances dictate. It is imperative that you take professional advice as to the method of sale and the ramifications of the deal so as not to undersell the value of what is likely your greatest asset; your home.

Lanes specialist Land & New Homes Company can provide up to date market appraisals and advise on all things development from inception to completion.

For an initial, confidential chat please contact Simon Cox at Lanes Land on 01992 526754 or simon.cox@lanesnewhomes.co.uk.

WIN BOOSTS TITLE HOPES

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

MANAGER Mauricio Pochettino has warned Chelsea that Tottenham Hotspur will not give up the fight for the Premier League title after watching his side cut the gap on the leaders to seven points.

Spurs ground out a 2-0 victory at Burnley over the weekend to strengthen their grip on second place in the table and were also handed a huge boost by Chelsea's shock defeat at home to Crystal Palace – a sequence of results which has given Pochettino's men new hope in their quest to be crowned champions for the first time since 1961.

"It's now seven points, it's completely different to ten," the manager said. "But there is still a lot of work to do. It's not dependent on us. It's dependent on if Chelsea fail. But in that moment, if they fail, we need to do our job."

"If we do our job we can be there until the end of the season and try and fight for the title. We are at seven points now and it's important to be there if Chelsea fail. We are there fighting for the Premier League, to be as high as possible."

Spurs were forced to work hard for their win at Burnley against a side with one of the best home records in the division despite their lowly standing in the table.

But the visitors' extra quality shone through and second-half goals from Eric Dier – his first of the season – and Son Heung-Min were enough to give them maximum points on a day which saw midfielders Victor Wanyama and Harry Winks both go off injured before the interval.

"It was a massive three points for us, especially with the way things happened in the first half," Pochet-

Not giving up: Mauricio Pochettino wants Spurs to maintain the pressure on table-topping Chelsea tino said. "It was difficult, but in the second half we dominated, created chances and in the end fully deserved the victory."

"We knew this was going to be a difficult game because Burnley are tough opposition but it's true that we were professional and we fought for every challenge and that was key to winning the game."

"We changed formation at halftime, but the good thing is to be flexible, to be able to play in different ways, to take a different direction with the team – that's important."

"We were very good defensively. We knew it was going to be a difficult game for us and all of them fought a lot to stop Burnley. The whole team was involved in the defensive action and were fantastic."

The manager added: "Harry had a problem in his ankle. Now we need to wait for results. We hope it won't be a big issue, but we'll see. It's sad, always. Harry is very young and an important player for us and it's always bad news when a player gets an injury."

"Victor suffered a big injury on his back and we'll see now what happens. We're sad for both players and now we have to wait."

Skolars beaten by last-minute score

THE London Skolars bowed out of rugby league's League One Cup in agonising circumstances on Saturday as a last-minute try condemned them to a 24-20 defeat at Oxford in the quarter-finals.

Despite trailing for much of the second half, the Skolars looked to have snatched victory when a converted try from Charlie Lawrence put them 20-18 ahead with time running out.

But it was not to be for the visitors as an error from Jake Melling resulted in Josh Atkinson racing 40 metres to the line to snatch a dramatic victory for Oxford.

The hosts took an early lead through a Curtis MacDonald try, but the Skolars responded well and were dominant for much of the rest of the first half.

Josh Allison touched down to level the scores before Eddie Mbaraga powered his way over the line to put the visitors ahead.

But the Skolars were unable to take advantage of several other good chances and Atkinson levelled the scores prior to the interval by crossing the line in the corner.

Atkinson struck again shortly after the restart, but the visitors hit back and tied the match up when Ben Pointer darted over from close range.

Oxford moved four points ahead again when Jordan Gill scored an unconverted try in the corner, and the match remained tight right the way through to the dramatic finale which saw the lead change hands twice as the contest ultimately ended in bitter disappointment for the visitors.

The London Skolars return to league action at the University of Gloucestershire All Golds on Sunday.

Draw sees Borough lose ground in race for the play-offs

HARINGEY BOROUGH lost ground in the race for the Ryman League North Division play-offs on Saturday despite securing a creditable 1-1 draw from their trip to high-flying Thurrock.

Results on Tuesday last week had seen Borough slip out of the top five in the table – with Phoenix Sports climbing above them after winning their game in hand – and the draw over the weekend has left them lying sixth, three points adrift of fifth-placed Phoenix with four matches remaining.

Thurrock, who are fourth, began the match positively and Glenn Poole almost gave them the lead inside the first minute with a shot from 20 yards out that curled just wide.

But Borough looked dangerous on the break from the start and they went ahead on 29 minutes when the ball was played forward to Ralston Gabriel, who drilled a shot beyond keeper Bobby Mason and into the net.

Ronnie Winn was thwarted by visiting keeper Will Viner as Thurrock looked to hit back immediately, while Poole again went close with a shot from distance in first-half stoppage time.

Winn and Poole had further chances for the hosts at the start of the second period, but only a fantastic save from Mason prevented Gabriel from doubling Borough's lead after he found himself through on goal.

However, the visitors were increasingly forced on the defensive as time progressed and the pressure eventually told as the equaliser arrived on 72 minutes, Mark Onyemah finding space to drill a shot into the far corner of the net.

Thurrock surged forward after this in search of a winner and thought that they had got it when Joe Christou powered a header towards goal, but Viner somehow managed to prevent the ball from crossing the line to ensure that the visitors escaped with a point.

Haringey Borough go to Brentwood Town on Saturday (3pm).
